The camera used in a self-propelled section 2 of the Shishido et al. patent does not have the ability to tilt and pan. Applicant has further amended claims 28 and 36 by further defining the transporter as an electrically powered tractor. The self-propelled section 2 of the Shishido et al. patent is operated by hydraulics and not a electrical power. Further, the electrically powered tractor allows a camera to be mounted, such that it may be tilted and panned, unlike the Shishido et al. patent.
